

SPENCER MADE HIS FIGHT A SUCCESS

be one of the issues on which the campaign will be waged, particularly in the doubtful states where Republican senators voted to seat Senator Newberry.

Both Senators Interested

To those who feel that Senator Newberry's power should have been seated, it is but fair to say that Senator Spencer did not seek to lead the fight in Newberry's behalf. Being chosen as chairman of the special committee, however, he soon developed a belief in Newberry's personal innocence, and made a fight, such as an able lawyer will make for his client.

Senator James A. Reed, who voted to unseat Newberry, made but one strong speech during the debate. Although short, this was one of the brilliant efforts of the opposition, and is credited with having won over several of the Progressive-Republicans who joined forces with the Democrats in the endeavor to prevent Newberry being seated.

The Missourians Danced

The annual meeting and dance of the Missouri Society of Washington, D. C., was held last Thursday night and proved to be one of the brilliant social events of the season in the Capitol. Despite the fact that it was held on the same night as President Harding's diplomatic reception, reckoned by Washington society as the most exclusive event at the White House, there was a large attendance at the Meridian mansion, where the Missouri Society met. Fully 200 guests, nearly all of them former Missourians, attended. A buffet supper was served, following which the Missourians danced until the morning hours.

Presidential postmasters for Missouri nominated during the last week include: Lee M. Robbins, Unionville; John Robber, Bourbon; Jackson G. Short, Gladwin; Hazel L. Post, Ironside; and Joel W. Saver, Highland.

Becker Is Recommended

Ed Becker, brother of Secretary of State Charles Becker, has been recommended by Representative Patterson for the postmastership at Morrisville.

Representative T. W. Huckabee has recommended the following for postmasters in his district: Louis E. Meyer, Bowling Green; Kirkley P. Wells, Clarksville; H. E. Christrup, Tadenia; D. L. Blenheim, Martinsburg; and John H. Fisher, Sullivan.

The Missouri Thwarted

At the instance of Senators Reed and Spencer and Representative R. C. Patterson, the war department has dispatched an army engineer to Missouri to investigate a report that the Missouri river threatens to cut a new channel, shortening its course, destroying several valuable farms and depriving the towns of Glasgow, Shawnee, and Marshall of possible river transportation. The situation is declared to be particularly serious at Glasgow, where the water supply of the town is also threatened. Inquiry at the war department developed the information that no funds are now available to contain the river in its old channel, nor is there adequate information as to how much would be required. It is for this reason that the army engineer has been sent to make the investigation, and when his report is submitted the senators will join with Congressman Patterson, in whose district these three towns are located, to urge an immediate and special appropriation.

These Are New P. M.'s

Missouri postmasters of the presidential class, whose commissions have been issued during the last week, are: Robert M. Trenchard, Benton; John W. Hilder, Unionville; Evelyn C. Carr, Rocky Comfort; Isaac M. Galbreath, Walker; Edward O. Horton, Washington.

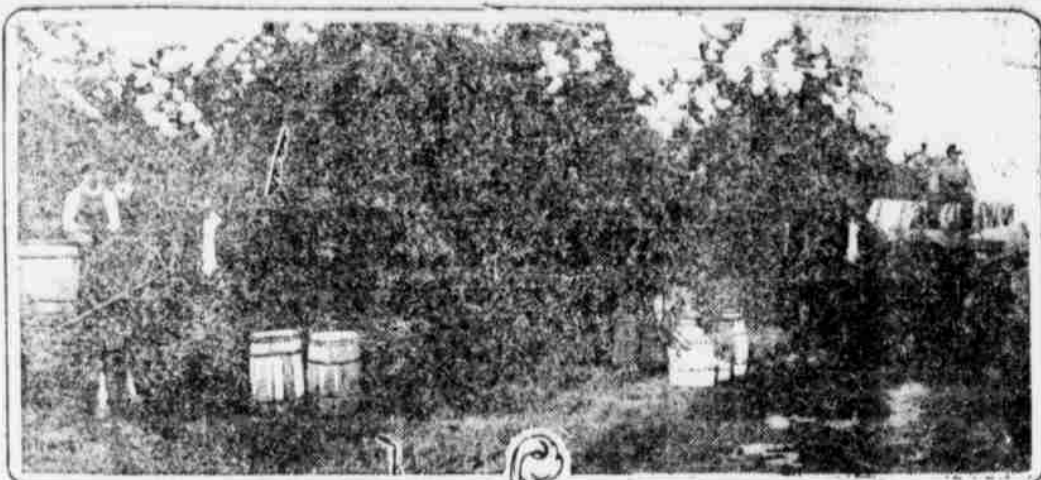

Fourth class postmasters appointed for Missouri include: James J. Birdwell, succeeding Mattie Clark at Rly. Howell county; Edwin L. Lamm, succeeding William A. Laha at Dornick, Ozark county; Robert O. Richards, succeeding John B. Swain at Goodhope, Douglas county; Wilson E. Forsythe, succeeding F. T. Harris at Hortonsville, New Madrid county; Dominick J. Hoffus, succeeding D. F. Loda, at Lawrenceville, St. Genevieve county; and Ralph B. Shrum, succeeding A. W. Loe, at Laxville, Bollinger county.

Commissioners for fourth class postmasters in Missouri announced during the week were as follows: Walter J. Harlan, St. George; Lena Baldwin, Briar Creek; George W. Taylor, Almartha; Byrde L. Cronin, Gatewood; Alice Lombard, Quinn; and Robert M. Getty, Santa Fe.

To Find New Postmasters

At the instance of the Post Office Department the Civil Service Commission is arranging to hold an examination to select eligibles for appointment as postmaster at Branshear, a presidential office. Investigations also will be made by post office inspectors with a view of making appointments at the following fourth class offices: Dillard,

FORTUNE IN APPLES GARNERED FROM CANADIAN ORCHARDS

NOVA SCOTIA ORCHARD

READY FOR OVERSEAS

OTTAWA, ONT.—Canada's apple yield for 1921 is 8,337,200 barrels. The Dominion Fruit Commissioner's Department shows that British Columbia increased its production to 1,009,000 barrels, as compared with 604,540 barrels the previous year. The Okanagan and Kootenay Valleys in Southern British Columbia are the great producing regions of the Pacific Coast, but this year's crop was increased by farmers in the lake region of the province who are combining fruit growing and dairying.

Nova Scotia, with a crop of 1,300,000 barrels, increased its production by 140,000 barrels over last year. The Ontario apple yield is placed at 960,000 barrels; Quebec 35,200, and New Brunswick 35,000. In Nova Scotia the harvest of Baldwin and Kings were particularly large, and in the Niagara peninsula of Ontario there was a big yield of Spies, Baldwins, McIntosh and russets.

Estimates of provincial agricultural experts in British Columbia place the value of the Okanagan region fruit crop at $6,000,000. This includes apples, peaches, plums, cherries, pears, apricots and berries. The total value of the apple crop in all Canada is placed at $30,000,000. In 1920 the average value per barrel for Canada was $8.77, as compared with $7.31 the previous year. This year's average price is expected to be about the same, and export sales, which totaled 1,127,400 barrels, probably will be surpassed this year.

not higher but really lower. So I got out me fax receipts for the past four years and compared them and found that some was had had, as me taxes on me little home and me little place of a farm were nearly double and as me delinquent were still quoted at 100 cents and harder to get than ever, I have concluded that any man that says taxes are not higher is a liar.

Mike: "Well, is that as far as you are going in the matter?"

Will Still Go Further

Pat: "Not but by any means. Oh, am going to be a distributor of news myself and button hole me friends and relatives and try to convince them of the sad and really mistake we made when we voted for a change and got out, was was that will reduce us all to poverty if we don't correct it at once."

Mike: "So they had to hit your pocket book to bring you to your senses."

Pat: "Well, rub it in—yez have ut comin'—say Ol told yez so, if yez want to—but that don't change me mind a bit. Of'm here to acknowledge Ol made an awful blunder and Of'm goin to do me best to turn the tide the other way as a reparation. Of'm goin to send some propaganda—about nepotism, that's a fine word—about false promises—syndicalism business administration, Budget system—and Of'll look into that was about the Greeks."

What Will the Harvest be?

Mike: "Well, what would yez prognosticate the result will be?"

Pat: "That word's a little heavy for me limited comprehension—but Of'll make a stab at it. Yez mane phat effect will it have?"

Mike: "Yis, Ol mane will ut change any votes?"

Pat: "Warra, warra, will ut change any votes? With the people raise up on their hind legs and assert themselves? Oh say yis! If the Dimmycrats will only organize and give the proper publicity to the costly and fearful blunders of the incompetent ruypublihan office holders the dear paypal will do the rest. We know what a joke the state administration is and now we have an example of local inportance—a police board superior to the law, with a white-washed peculiar treasurer paying bonuses to protect corporation property outside of the city and lavin our citizens endangered on our business centers without any a traffic cop. The comptroller says its not laygal. The mayor says its without precedent. The city counselor says he was not consulted. The state appointed board says they are not goin to be interfered with by petty politics. Phat have the tax payers to say? Let them speak on April 4th."

into a district of which Kansas City holds a little slice and where the district reaches from the Iowa line down to the Missouri river, even crossing that stream which since the foundation of the state has been the dividing line, in order that it may kill Platte's democratic vote and make that district safely gop. Then to "take the place," as the gops so obligingly say, they went to work and packed into a district these NINE gop counties—no matter how they lay—and then in an attempt to fool the people dubbed it the Third district—which is to laugh—that is for the gops to do the ha ha act.

Just See the Cause

Now to anyone so obtuse that it is necessary to use an air pump, a stick of dynamite and a rat-tailed file to get the fact into their thick pots, it is but necessary to name the counties—give the vote at the last election—and add up the totals—to show that a democrat in such a district—would have about as much show as a pollywog would have to swallow the G. O. P. elephant without a coating of mutton tallow being first smeared over his hide—the comparison is not only invidious but actually odious—but it is trite just the same—and now possible, Mr. Obtuse, you can with the few figures which prove their own sad moral, see why the Democrats are so lavishly signing these referendum petitions and why the gops have been indulging in so many husky ha, ha's!

Try This on Your Adding Machine

Of course it is not absolutely necessary that these figures be tried out on an adding machine for almost all Jeffersonian democrats can figure a little off hand, despite the fact that the party of "normalcy, thrift and progress" claims that it has a lead pipe cinch on all of the intelligence of the country, but that is neither here or there for here are the plain unvarnished figures—that tell the whole bald truth themselves.

In the last election the following vote was cast for secretary of state in the nine counties which go to make up the new gop patent process Third district:

County	Dem.	Rep.
Nodaway	5,471	6,985
Atchison	2,225	2,234

Holt	2,422	4,128
Andrew	2,487	3,910
Buchanan	16,178	17,251
Worth	1,649	1,765
Gentry	3,434	3,442
Harrison	2,520	6,128
DeKalb	2,279	2,950
Total	58,575	48,788

It doesn't take over ten minutes to subtract the democratic total of 38,575 from the gop total of 48,788 which gives the gops a beastly majority of 10,213 and which, even at the present glorious time of H. H. T., causes them to put on a smile of beatific, Hyderalized contentment.

JOHN L'S GLAD HAND

A St. Louis Newspaper Man Tells of the Great Fighter's Style of Address.

"Aw, haw! haw! haw!" I can hear him even now when I asked him my favorite question about life, his plans, the value of exercise (1), etc.

"He wants to know about exercise? You're all right, young fella, kinda slim, but you'll do. Sit down and have some champagne. Have a cigar. Give 'im some cigars, George. These young newspaper men are all right right to me. I'm for 'em. Exercise? What I think? Haw! Haw! Write any damned thing yuh please, young fella, and say that John L. Sullivan said so. That's good enough for me. If they don't believe it bring it back here and I'll sign it for yuh. But I know it'll be all right, and I won't stop to read it neither. That suit yuh? Well, all right. Now have some more champagne and don't say I didn't treat yuh right, 'cause I did. I'm ex-champion of the world, defeated by that little dude from California, but I'm still John L. Sullivan—eh? That right? Haw! haw! They can't take that away from me, can they? Haw! haw! Have some more champagne, boy."

"I adored him. I would have written anything he asked me to write. I got up the very best article I could and published it, and was told afterward that it was fine."

An interesting item of contemporary history is the decision of the Federated Council of Churches of Pittsburgh not to encourage "imported" evangelists. The decision, announced by the secretary of the council, was preceded by an expression of opinion regarding the question at conferences representing about 300 Protestant churches in Allegheny county. Three Presbyterian ministers of Pittsburgh dissent but the sentiment of the churches as a whole is said to be "overwhelming." Campaigns of the "Billy" Sunday and "Gipsy" Smith type are judged "too high priced, too much commercialized, too obsolete, false in stimulation and ineffective." The counts in the indictment are familiar, but such a wide-spread agreement upon them, at least such a formal expression of agreement, is unusual—Moberly Democrat.

ANOTHER FREAK AFFAIR AT THE PENITENTIARY

THAT IS JUST A LITTLE MORE NAUSEATING THAN ITS PREDECESSORS

WHICH ARE NOW PULLED OFF UNDER HYDE REGIME

So Lax Is the Discipline and So Much Latitude Is Allowed the Inmates at the State Penitentiary That Frank Jandro, One of the Convicts, Carried on a Love Affair With a Federal Court Clerk and Only Was Discovered and Again Put Back to His Proper Place After He Had Married the Giddy and Easily Pleased Widow.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—How a convict chauffeur serving a two year sentence and posing as a wealthy young business man was able in citizens' clothes to successfully carry on a clandestine love affair with an attractive young widow of this city over a period of several months through the use of one of the state's high-powered automobiles, was revealed here Saturday, when their marriage was discovered.

The principals of the shattered romance are Frank Jandro, a convict of French descent, who was sent to the penitentiary December 6, 1920, to serve two years for aiding in a jail delivery in Newton county, and Mrs. Mayme W. Wadley, a widow, who is deputy clerk of the United States district court here.

Jandro is about 30 years old. Mrs. Wadley is about 25 and is a decided brunette. She lives with her parents and is well known here.

Warden Samuel Hill of the penitentiary removed Jandro from his work as chauffeur on the outside and placed him back in the prison when he heard of the love affair.

Mrs. Wadley Saturday told a correspondent she had been "deceived" by Jandro and that she was no longer interested in him.

"The least that is said about it the better it will be for everyone concerned," said Mrs. Wadley. "I do not want to talk about it until after I have had another talk with Warden Hill, who is doing everything he can to help me."

Widow Is Silent

She declined to comment on their marriage as Jandro plans to leave the penitentiary on the expiration of his term on Feb. 5.

Jandro was able to carry on his love match because he was given unusual privileges in driving the automobile for Warden Hill. He was one of four or five convicts who are used in driving the prison machines about the city and to the prison farms.

While Jandro was not busy driving the machine he was supposed to remain at the prison garage across the street from the main entrance to the penitentiary.

It has been the custom for such convicts to return to the prison at 5:30 and be locked up in their cells for the night. However, some of the chauffeurs have been used recently later than that hour and as a result remained in quarters at the prison garage at night.

Kept "Square" Clothes

It is believed that Jandro kept a suit of "square" clothes at the garage and that he would exchange it for his prison uniform of gray when he started courtin' in the evening in the high-powered automobile. In this manner he was able to present the appearance of an ordinary citizen except he had his large automobile.

Then the erstwhile widow, now newlywed, took a little action on her part by filing suit for divorce against her convict husband. The suit was filed Tuesday of this week and alleges that the convict husband deceived her by representing himself as a federal officer—which the entire community knows is not the fact as the plaintiff well knew.

Hide and Hide

Bungalow Artie says he knows booze is being sold openly in Kansas City, and practically admits it is being sold either under his police board's protection or by its connivance, but says the protests against the police force are of the frame-up sort. Artie should change the spelling of his name to "Hilde," for he can find more lame and fool excuses to hide behind than any office-holder we know of.—Hardin News.

Hersey Should Get Acquainted

Congressman Hersey, Republican of Maine, is opposed to the Republican party going on record in favor of the Dyer anti-lynching bill. He declares that the Republicans as "a party owe nothing to the colored people, and for one," he refuses "to be politically blackmailed." Mr. Hersey should get better acquainted with some of the "black and tans" in Congress, who do nothing else except play for the colored vote.—Missouri State Journal.
